STATEMENT

Roquette is aware that consumers are increasingly interested in the natural status of food ingredients.

To this day, there is no harmonized regulatory definition of the word “natural”, be it on the European or the international level.

In the absence of such regulation, the ISO technical specification TS 19657-2017 on “Definitions and technical criteria for food ingredients to be considered as natural” provides guidance for business to business communication. Roquette offers an interpretation of these criteria for its line of products.

Considering that the interpretation of the word “natural” may vary throughout the world, we recommend that our customers also check on a case-by-case basis whether they can use the wording “natural” on the consumer label for a specific product in a specific market.

The following ROQUETTE product is derived from natural, vegetable raw materials (maize) and fulfil the criteria of the ISO TS 19657-2017:
